

Bite Me! Music + Fashion

"...I think music and fashion have always mirrored each others as part of a creative context. They cannot be separate. I need fashion for my music, and I need music for my fashion." - Lady Gaga

Jack of None – Who Shot Bukowski

Jack of None is an experimental rock band comprised of the Syjuco siblings. Maxine's lyrics are mainly delivered via spoken word over a backdrop of electronic embellishments. Artistic in nature, the ten tracks that make up the group's latest release, Who Shot Bukowski, fuse together elements of electro, garage rock, blues, and new wave. Maxine's voice is mesmerizing and it bodes well with the multiplicity of the band's experimental sound. There is a lot to discover here. The more time you invest into this album, the more it gives back. – NIN
